Many of Webster's boys have gone forth generously and unafraid to uphold the ideals of this country. Some will not return; yet they will have given us a brave, new world, and will remain immortal in the hearts of those they've left behind.

Miss Minnie Essig—quiet, patient, interested in the individual student—always manifested a spirit of unselfish service. She was a true friend as well as teacher, and her fine spirit lives on as an influence among all who knew her.

Mr. L. H. Wirthlin, as assistant to the superintendent in charge of buildings, rendered a genuine service to Webster High. Friendly, cooperative, always eager to help others, he won the confidence and admiration of the entire community.

We wish to show our appreciation to our School Board, our administrators, and our faculty for their interest and co-operation, without which many activities and the type of school spirit which we desire would be impossible. It is largely through their efforts that Webster has become an outstanding school for education and wholesome recreation.

School spirit has the same place in a high school as yeast has in a loaf of bread. Yeast gives to a mass of flour the quality of life. School spirit transforms a mass of people—students and faculty members—into a living, working group.

The life qualities of yeast remain dormant unless the right combination of ingredients and proper growing conditions are present. School spirit, too, must be constantly nurtured and developed if it is to flourish. The very base of school spirit is the quality of work that goes on in the classrooms, the shops, the laboratories, and the gymnasiums of the school. This base can be flavored and enriched and given color by such activities as music, dramatics, debate, athletics, and others.

Every student can help nurture school spirit by finding ways in his own daily life through which he can contribute to the school. He can do his work to the best of his ability; he can conduct himself like a well-controlled citizen of a democratic institution. He can perform tribute to students, to their associates, and to the school.

Faculty members also have a stake in school spirit. They must believe in the young people with whom they work. They must believe in education and democracy. They must be more interested in people than they are in things. They, too, must be willing to serve and to contribute to students, to their associates, and to the school.

When all the members of an organization, such as the Webster Groves High School, begin to put into that school the services of which they are capable, the living qualities of the yeast are released. It is then that school spirit makes your high school experience such an outstanding event in your life that you keep turning back to it with pride down through the years.

—WILLARD E. GOSLIN

Hail then! Hail to thee!

Administrators

High school days are soon to become memories. For an alumnus who has invested his four years at Webster Groves High School wisely and happily, they bring a warm glow of satisfaction, affection, loyalty, and almost a reverence for a fine Alma Mater. For him "Webster High" or the "Webster Spirit" has rich meaning.

It meant a well tempered, day by day investment in work and play. He gained a well rounded education.

It meant a genuine democratic concern for his fellow-men—a sincere practice of the common courtesies, a high sense of fair play and a willingness to share.—He enjoyed a rich fellowship and has made lasting friendships.

He appreciated the freedom to do and to grow, and cherished it so that he used a keen sense of honor and responsibility in helping to maintain it.—He realized self-direction and self-reliance.

He volunteered his services freely but wisely. He was a loyal follower and a dependable leader. He supported all worthy activities. He placed the interests of his school above his.—He attained a true respect for himself, for his fellow classmates, and for his school.

United in ideals, spirit and will, these students make the "Webster Spirit"; these alumni revere "Webster High."

Fifty Years Dedicated to Youth

We know of no other person who has given so much service in our school as Mr. Hixson. His strong Christian character and spirit and his high standard of scholarship have exerted an enduring and far-reaching influence. His keen sense of humor, firm but reasonable discipline, genuine interest in each individual student as well as in every activity and problem of our school—all of these qualities have made Mr. Hixson a symbol of the spirit of Webster Groves High School.

There has never been an occasion so memorable in the story of our school as the ceremony planned by the students themselves to pay tribute to Mr. Hixson, our retiring principal. Nearly 2,000 students assembled in the natural amphitheatre next to the school; and as Mr. Hixson approached, they spontaneously rose and gave sincere applause in appreciation of his having unselfishly devoted thirty-seven of his fifty years in education toward making Webster High what it is today. Mr. Hixson, greatly moved, received several beautiful gifts and then expressed his own feelings of surprise and gratitude. The students cheered, sang the Alma Mater, and quietly returned to their classes, inspired to carry on the ideals and spirit of this man.

Junior Class

The Junior Class has taken an outstanding part in the extracurricular activities of the senior school. Many juniors have held positions of leadership in music, athletics, dramatics, publication staffs, Student Council, Red Cross, language clubs and Pan Am club.

On February 17 the basketball game between the Junior and Senior teams was held in the armory. The Seniors won 33 to 20. During the year the guidance office and the advisory board held high school and college entrance examinations and gave information concerning various training programs. The Vocational Department and the Minnesota Paper Form was organized in the fall when the officers were elected and each member was assigned a task to be done.

in the home rooms rather than as a unit. The students who were among the first to initiate the "mile of dimes" campaign, they balanced weights with nickels until they collected more than forty dollars for the Red to the Red Cross $1.200.00 in the Fourth War Year. They contributed, as did all, to the Red Cross. They worked in the craft group. They made hospital favors, aprons, plies, games, scrapbooks, cross-word puzzles, menu cards.

The conference teachers are: Miss Bailey, Miss Campbell, Miss Doud, Mr. Fues, Miss Gann, Mr. Knepper, Miss Prieur, Miss Schowengerdt, Miss Helen Toner, and Miss Winifred Toner; and the counselor is Miss Iona Jones.

Nan Faltmann

Faltmann

Although the Sophomore Class did not elect a class officer in the fall it has been active in the clubs and all activities of the senior school. Sophomores held an important place in boys' and girls athletics, Latin Club, Pan Am, Red Cross, and Student Council. The girls, working with Miss Epps and Miss Colletti, organized the Tr-Y, and similarly, the boys, with Mr. Shelton as sponsor, organized the Tr-Y.

The teachers, the counselor, and the various advisers worked individually with new students to help them make the adjustment to life in a new school, and individual conferences were held to check high school programs and credits.

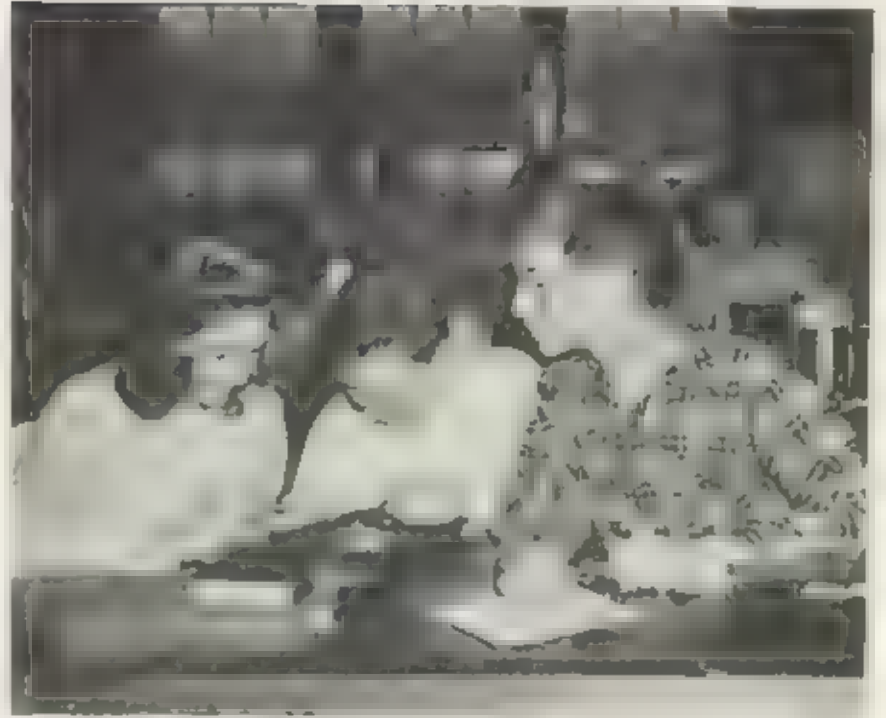

Because the class was too large to meet together often, most of the work was carried on through the home rooms. Material concerning extracurricular activities was presented in the conference periods and students were urged to join groups in which they had special interests

The sophomore home rooms, working with all the home rooms in the school, were active in the War Bond and Red Cross drives, in the Red Cross craft groups, and in the Russian Relief campaign. The sophomores alone contributed $70.50 to the Red Cross and bought approximately $1,200.00 worth of bonds and stamps in the Fourth War Loan Drive. The craft groups made afghans, hospital favors, games, menu cards, scrapbooks, and cross-word puzzles.

The conference teachers are: Mr. Barnett, Mrs. Bodman, Mrs. Benner, Miss Colletti, Mrs. Craig, Miss Henneke, Mr. Jones, Miss Pruehs, Mr. Shelton, and Mr. Havenor.

As the student whole-heartedly supports one or more extra-curricular activities, he more fully enjoys the friendship of others and gradually learns to assume responsibility and practice good sportsmanship. Thus he gains a finer School Spirit than can be acquired in classes alone.

The purpose of the Echo Annual during its thirty-one years of publication has been to portray school life realistically by both formal and informal pictures. This year it has again attempted to give students a vivid and lasting record of high school days, a pictorial record incomparable to any other.

The grand co-operation of the twenty-five staff members and the student body as a whole helped to make this a successful year.

One of the nicest things about working for "The Echo" was the fact that there was always a chance to help with all the various jobs. Often in emergencies, such as rushing to meet a deadline, each person was called upon to leave his individual job and give help where it was most needed.

However, being on the annual staff did not always require hard work, and even when it did, there was always fun and laughter mixed with it, as you would know if you had ever strolled by 201 during sixth hour.

Many privileges were given to the staff members such as meeting and working with photographers, engravers, printers, and other business men, and learning all about how a yearbook is made. It surprised most of the staff to learn just how much work and worry is required for a book like this one you're now looking at.

The staff lowered the cost of the book for subscribers by selling advertising and at a small profit such things as supplies at the bookstore, candy after school, Turkey Day buttons, and pencils with the basket ball schedule printed on them.

This year, as in the past, the Echo Annual Staff, under the sponsorship of Miss Schowengerdt, has tried to give you a book truly representative of school life at Webster. Moreover, every member agrees that working on the yearbook has been a grand experience never to be forgotten.

The Webster Echo looks back on its twenty-eighth year of publication with a feeling of satisfaction at having achieved at least some of its ideals.

In serving the school itself, the paper has tried to foster "real" school spirit, and to give constructive criticism of school policies in its editorials—that is, constructive, if they are read! It has tried to be fair in the use of space for various departmental activities, cutting down on all to some extent in order to devote space to important war and peace projects. The Feature Page has played down trite and monotonous gossip and has tried to present the "personal dom's" of students in a new light.

Although the work this year has presented many responsibilities, the staff, under the sponsorship of Miss Howard, has done its best to assume them, and has managed to have a pretty good time as well!

Lots of luck

too. I can draw
real good stick figures.

One student from each home room is a member of the Student Council, which consists of an Upper School House and a Lower School House. The purpose of the Student Council is to foster democracy, and to give students a voice in school affairs and extend the influence of the school. The members were elected by the students of the Upper and Lower School, and for managing the election of school presidents. This year Don Torr was the president of both houses; Melvin Hofmeister, of the Upper House, and Randy Martin of the Lower House.

The main projects of the Upper House, under "Doc" Schulz, have been: sponsoring the Activity Ticket, giving noon dances, stimulating participation in the War Loan Drives, and presenting a dance.

The main projects of the Lower House, under Miss Henneke, have been: giving noon dances, conducting a noon study hall, presenting a matinee dance, and posting information on the Junior School bulletin board.

Pep Club

The Pep Club was the largest organization at Webster this year, with a membership of approximately 200. The club is formed of girls who are interested in athletics and in maintaining and promoting a good school spirit. Under the sponsorship of Miss Troester, the club has carried out many varied activities.

This organization was called the Yellow Jackets until five years ago, when the present name was adopted. The Yellow Jackets were organized in 1924 by a group of girls who were interested in increasing enthusiasm at Webster for athletics. Since that year the club has grown in size and activities, and though the original name has been discarded, the girls still carry on the ideals and purposes of those who founded it.

Very instrumental in raising school spirit this year were the seven cheerleaders: Jean Dekker, Bets Widmer, Lucy Rieth, David Menne, Don Beecher, George Schneider, and Bob Browne. They attended regularly all pep rallies, assemblies, and games, never failing to be out there leading the crowd and yelling for our team. They originated and introduced many clever new cheers, and on the whole were great morale boosters of both the players on the teams and the students in the audience. A great attraction was added by the adoption of a mascot, a white goat named Satan. The appearance of Satan, all dressed up in his orange and black blanket made by one of the members of Pep Club, created a mild sensation at the football game. Satan's career was untimely ended by a vicious dog, however, and another goat, Beelzebub, took his place to finish out the year. In previous years the cheerleaders were chosen by the Pep Club alone, but this year's leaders were elected by the vote of the whole school.

The officers of the Pep Club for this past year were very competent and undoubtedly were largely responsible for the many successful activities and the unusually large membership. The positions held were as follows: Mary Krimmel, President, Mary Conzelman, Vice-President, Dorothy Monroe, Secretary-Treasurer

In September the club gave a rush party to tell prospective new members about the activities and ideals of the organization. The club is open membership are that she must attend all athletic contests played at Webster and must wear a white blouse at school the day before a game to signify that she is in the Pep Club. She must also attend as many games played away from Webster as possible

At various meetings during the year the girls increased the pep of all the girls by practicing new cheers with the club

During the football season, members of the Pep Club sold cokes at the home games. All the members of the club were supposed to sit in a special section of the grandstand in order to give better support to the cheerleaders. Several times this section was decorated by the club with orange and black crepe paper, and the goal posts were decorated by the cheerleaders

On February 5th a backward dance, entitled "The Basket Ball," was given by the Pep Club. The purpose of this dance was to arouse interest in the basket ball season then in progress. Near the end of the season, the club experimented at the games with the novel idea of flashing from the stands large cards which spelled out "Webster." The effect was very good, and next year this plan will undoubtedly be carried on with even greater success.

The Pep Club has done very well in carrying out its ideals and achieving its purposes. This past year has been an outstanding one in the history of the organization.

Girls Athletic Association

The purpose of the Girls Athletic Association is to promote good sportsmanship and a feeling of cooperation. The year was started off by a ball party to introduce the members to the club and in December the new members were initiated. One hundred points earned in other sports are required for initiation. Also to obtain membership a student must have earned an A or B in school.

According to the G. A. A. constitution a banquet dance was held on April 22, 1934, when the Kampus Krow was awarded the trophy for the year. It was given and accepted by the members to those who earned the highest percentage in various sports throughout the year.

Officers for the year were: President Kathleen Zakarian, Vice President Mary Kramel, Secretary Marion DeFrank, Treasurer Betty Wheeler, Sergeant-at-Arms Irene Moore, Treasurer and Miss Troester.

This year the Junior Red Cross, under Miss Allen and Miss Bynum, helped the war effort in many ways. In the membership drive every student joined the Red Cross. Some of the activities were: filling boxes for children overseas, distributing Christmas presents to soldiers, sending presents to the blind, and knitting afghans. Also approximately $550 was given in the National Red Cross Drive of March.

Library Staff

The students who donated their services to the high school library this year were among the hardest workers in school. These students, under the direction of Miss Allen and Mrs. Halner, checked the library books, helped keep sources of information in order, and spent a great deal of time looking for library material. Also through them the students were notified of new books.

Production Staff

The Production Staff is an essential part of every production. The production staff are those who are in charge of the production of those work. They are in charge of the costumes, make-up, props, and the house. The purpose of the Production Staff is to give credit where credit is due for the production. The amount of credit is determined by the amount of work done by each person in the production. Those "behind the scenes" are the ones who make the production possible.

Symphonic Band

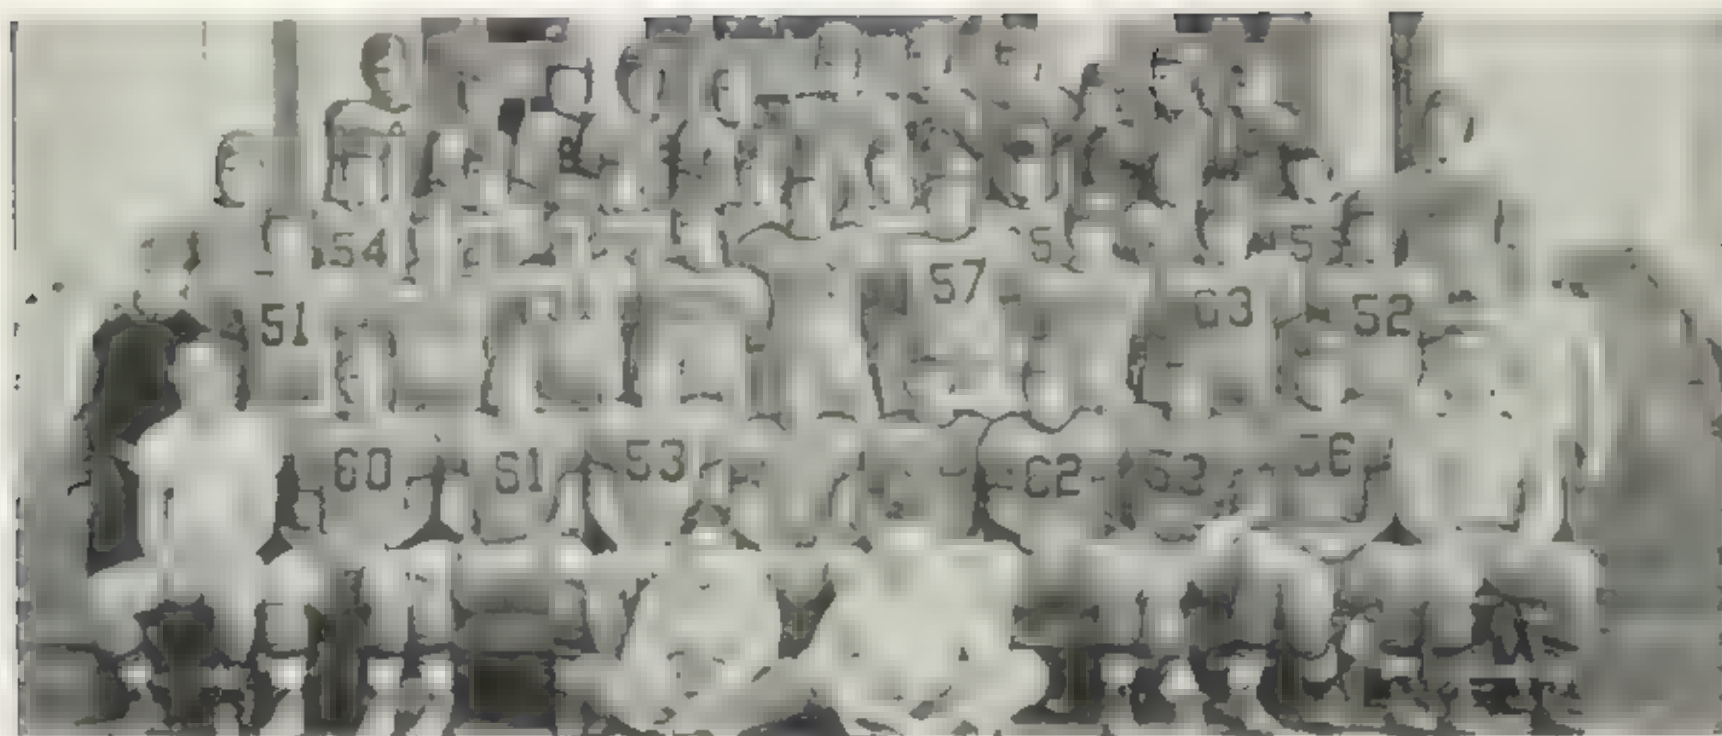

The symphonic band, under the direction of Mr. Lemke, is one of the most active and successful of the school. A meeting of the Association, held in the school gymnasium, was held in the afternoon of the 15th of the month. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the progress of the band and to plan for the future. The meeting was held in the gymnasium and was attended by the students, the instructor, and the Assistant Principal, Mr. Herman and Don Thompson.

Lower School Instrumental Music

During the year, the lower school instrumental music program has been very successful. The students have been given a great deal of instruction in the fundamentals of music and have been able to play a variety of instruments. The program has been very popular and has received a great deal of praise from the students and the community. Following the lead of Coaches Moss and Smith, Co-Captains Grinnell and Stein led the Statesmen through a tough, eight-game schedule winning six games and losing two. The team scored a total of 138 points while holding their opponents to 67.

The first game was a 14-0 victory over C. B. C. A week later, St. Louis-Central was shut-out by the same score. In the first league game against Ritenour on a muddy field the Statesmen won by a score of 25 to 6.

With high hopes, Webster next invaded the territory. The Indians were given a real scare, when Webster continually threatened the U. City goal line. However, the Indians were too fleet-footed and the Statesmen went down fighting, with a score of 6 to 25.

Coming back strong after their first defeat, the smooth Webster machine conquered Normandy, Clayton, and Maplewood, all by decisive scores.

The Pioneers were rushed off their feet with two lightning touchdown thrusts that put Webster 14-0 ahead. Perhaps it looked too easy—at any rate, Kirkwood kept plugging, and while the Statesmen's attack continued to be smooth as silk in mid-field, it always slowed down to a walk inside the 20-yard line. Final score: Kirkwood 19, Webster 14.

The success of the 1943 Statesmen was characterized by teamwork rather than by individual stars. However, Allen (end) was named on several all-star teams, Frier (back), Grinnell (center), Keller (back), Nooter (tackle), Croghan (tackle), and Stein (guard) received honorable mention on one or more all-star aggregations.

"B" and "C" Football

Coach Bryant, mentor of the 1943 "B" team, produced a group of boys who were unbeatable in five games. The Junior Statesmen amassed a total of 57 points, while holding their opponents scoreless. The team started the season by beating Clayton 7-0 on the loser's field. Ritenour was the next victim of the powerful eleven, losing 25-0. Then came the arch rivals, Kirkwood. Although the final score was 0-0, both teams played hard. The team won their last two games 13-0 and 12-0 at the expense of Normandy and Clayton.

The "C" team, piloted by Coach Smith, played a limited schedule this year due to transportation difficulties. Regardless of this fact, the boys managed to come through the season with a .500 average. The team led off by beating Clayton 7-0. Next Webster played host to Kirkwood, but came out on the short end of a 14-0 score. The team split their last two games, beating Clayton for a second time 27-7, but dropping a tough one to Kirkwood 7-0.

With the close of the gridiron season, Webster's cagers began to practice, and in two weeks the squad was cut to fourteen boys. To get in shape, the Mossmen played a practice game with Brentwood, winning 31-28.

The regular season began at C. B. C., where the Statesmen trounced their hosts, 36-21. The next two encounters were league games which Webster dropped to Clayton, 32-24, and to Normandy, 31-26. Frier was the top scorer with ten points against the speedy Greyhounds, and Painter was the swish man, with ten against the Vikings.

During the Christmas holidays, Webster lost two games in the Normandy Tournament, one to Southwest, 34-22, and one to Roosevelt, 19-18, in overtime. The Websterites battered Maplewood 30-20, but they were shaded by their traditional rivals, Kirkwood, 36-33. The Statesmen won at St. Charles on Frier's free throw in the last minute, 25-24. Webster then lost four consecutive games to U. City, 35-34; Clayton, 32-28; Normandy, 41-39, and Kirkwood, 53-33. The scoring honors were taken by: Painter with seven tallies at Clayton, Head with twelve points against the Vikings, and Frier with fourteen points in the Pioneer clash. Ending their scheduled season in glory, the Mossmen defeated Ritenour 31-24, U. City 41-23, and Wellston 28-17. Captain Jack Painter scored twenty-two points in the Indian massacre.

In the C. B. C. subregional tournament, Webster throttled C. B. C. 40-22, and crushed the Pioneers of Kirkwood 47-34. In the final tournament game, however, Maplewood conquered 27-17. In the district tournament Webster cooled off Wellston 35-26. This victory earned Webster the right to clash with mighty Cleveland, which had twenty-two consecutive victories. The Statesmen played valiantly but were shaded 32-29. In the final game against St. Louis U. High the Statesmen were defeated 41-36. Thus Webster was fourth in district basket ball for the 1943-44 season.
